Item no. 6

The department does not have a formally established recruiting program for volunteer services. The department staff which includes the agricultural and weights and measures inspectors and the insect trappers out in the field, the county veterinarian, vet pathologist and lab technicians on the job, watershed and environmental staff, the agricultural commissioner, deputies, and others directly and indirectly advertise the functions and goals of the Department of Agriculture, Weights and Measures. This plus the department participation in a number of job fairs may interest many students and non-students who then call the department to volunteer services in varied ways. Other sources of volunteers for the department include the Regional Occupational Progam (ROP), Mesa College, UCSD and SDSU who periodically send students for volunteer services as part of the required internship program for registered veterinary technicians. The Department has a description of possible internships on file with the UCSD and Southwestern College.
